

Amita Sanghavi

I am at heart a passionate teacher, affiliate researcher, writer, blogger, YouTuber, FB influencer, video-maker, Editor of International Anthologies of Poetry, and a published poet and University lecturer and a Radio co-host as well as a Poetry editor and critic. I have more than 70 publications of Poetry and newspaper articles (both by me, and about me) and creative essays and research papers. I have presented academic papers and conducted workshops abroad consistently every academic year prior to the Pandemic, in the USA, Italy, Germany, Egypt, Turkey, Japan, Malaysia, India, UK and Oman.

During the Pandemic I have given Motivational speeches in the USA virtually, and conducted workshops of Motivation among employees in Indian School Wadi Kabir and in India, Mumbai I have given workshops for Motivation to teachers and Inner Wheel club members, Dist. 314. I have been certified or awarded for my voluntary contributions or participation or value-based feedback for more than 20 professional development workshops at SQU and British Council, Oman and have to my honor judged several debate and poetry contests or competitions in the wider community, including the prestigious Sahitto international poetry contests of South Pacific Asia, and am nominated judge for Toastmasters, entire Oman in the forthcoming weeks for their International Skit Competition videos.

I work closely with and organize events at Indian Embassy, Muscat, under the Oman-India Cultural relationship wing, in order to promote Omani artists and photographers. My YouTube channel and blog have between 80,000 views and 100,000 views for my creative videos. My articles have been published in in-house Imprint newsletter as well as Times of Oman, Oman Observer, two national dailies and The Week, the tabloid Oman reads. I have been a Radio co-host several times with Vancouver Radio, Canada.
