PROFILE

I am Ms. Harshita Prabhakaran, a committed and passionate nursing educator with over 15 years of teaching experience in esteemed nursing institutions in India. I hold a Master's degree in Child Health Nursing and a Master of Arts in Sociology, complemented by a strong clinical background with four years of experience at a prestigious Children's Hospital and Research Centre. With a strong commitment to excellence in both didactic and clinical instruction, I have contributed extensively to undergraduate nursing education. My work includes the implementation of simulation-based teaching, development of realistic clinical case scenarios, and the use of active learning strategies to improve student engagement and outcomes. I am committed to integrate innovative teaching-learning strategies and technological advancements into nursing practice.
